Y-Age Aeon Study Results

Spearheaded by Dr. Thomas Budzynski, this 2010 study concluded that the Y-Age Aeon patch produces a balance in the nervous system, which significantly contributes to stress reduction. According to LifeWave Director of Health and Science, Dr. Steven Haltiwanger: “Thus it would appear that most of the change in Autonomic Balance produced by the Y-Aeon patch was due to an increase of parasympathetic activity. In conclusion, the hypothesis that it would produce a balancing of autonomic innervation to the heart was supported.
